The Christian Union makes to the above etter the following simple and wise reply: From our point of view the answer to this young man is not difficult, though it may not be who ly intelled nally satisfactory. It is, briefly, that God is love, that the end of his government is redemption, that all his powers and all his wisdom are and will be employed in bringing a scalldren to know and love and be like him, that no child of his will be suffered to stray away in the wilds of death if infinite love and itenderness of compassion can rescue him. He is the Eternal Goodness, and if it could be con: ceived that he should cease to be the Eternal Goodness, he would cease to be God. We should further say to this incuirer that the provision which the Eternal Goodness has made for our redemption in this life is Jesus Carist. This he has revealed to us, and this is al. that he has revea ecous, For the rest, we only know that he is the Eternal Goodness, and that those who have died without a knowledge of that revelation. and have fallen out of sight, have fallen. not into Carkness, for there is no carkness, nor into separation from God, for stacre is no blace in the universe separated from God, but into Hist infinite and some time ago. The iterary element is not so largely represented under he administration of Presiden; Cleveland, in the foreign and pointments, as it was under previous administrations. Under the latter, for instance, were lames R. Lowe George Bancroft, Bret Harte, Meredith Read, Marsh, John Bigelow (at present an eleventa-nour democrat, through the induence of his friend, the late Mr. Tilden), A pert Ruodes, Motley, John Lay, John Nico av. and others that might be named. No literary man of great note has received a foreign appointment under Mr. Cleveland, although Prof. R. B. Anderson, minister to Denmark; &r. Francis E. Uncerwood, consu at Glasgow; and Mr. W. L. Alcen, consul-genera at Home, deserve honorable mention for their iterary attainments. Persans, too, Mr. S. S. Cox, the late minister to Turkey, should be classed among book makers. Is this, absence of writers because Mr. Clevelant, entertains for men of talk kind the opinion of Simon Cameron, who referred to them on a certain occasion as "literary fellers, elino consequence?"
